

Wild Voices Program Submission Form

Wild Voices for Kids supports individuals who have specific knowledge or expertise connected to the local environment that can be shared with students in the Columbia Basin region of British Columbia. While developing your Wild Voices program submission please consider:

- How this program is connected to your specific area of expertise;
- How this program is relevant to the environment or natural history of the Columbia Basin region of BC, specifically to the communities, cultures, and places that you will be offering the program; and
- How this program will help “students develop stronger ties to their community [and] enhance [their] appreciation for the natural world” (David Sobel).

Program Information

Program Title:

School Districts:

SD5 SD6 SD8 SD10 SD19 SD20 Independent

Grade Levels:

Primary (K-3) Intermediate (4-6) Middle (7-9) High School (10-12)

Content Categories:

Climate Ecosystems/Wildlife Food Forestry
 Sustainable Living Water Indigenous Education

Seasons:

Fall Winter Spring/Summer

Type:

Duration:

Location:

Consider natural spaces commonly close to schools - can you use green space on school properties or natural areas in walking distance nearby? If your program will happen at an offsite location that requires transport by bus, please indicate this and list examples of suitable field-study locations.

Program Proposal

Main Idea:

1-2 sentences that concisely and effectively describe the overarching message or main idea of your program.

Key Concepts:

Plan to cover a maximum of five key concepts through your program. Each should be connected to the main idea.

Program Overview:

1 – 2 concise paragraphs to describe your program to teachers.

Curriculum Links:

Please suggest a few areas your program may connect to the BC curriculum. Please click HERE for support with making curriculum links.

Activity Plan:

While we encourage that programs are responsive to the unique inquiries and exploration that will emerge with each class, we ask for an overview framework of planned activities. In point form, please outline an overview of the progression of activities that your program will involve.